

Yankees Overwhelmed by Tigers—White Sox Take First Place—Giants and Dodgers Win

Dauess Holds New Yorkers To Mere Handful of Hits

Locals Show Up Poorly and Take Bad Beating; Cobb, Storm Center of Big Crowd at Polo Grounds, Denies Statements Adverse to Carl Mays

By W. O. McGeehan
The Yankees yesterday looked more like the same old junk that Frank Farrell dumped on the doosteps of Colonels Ruppert and Huston than they have at any time since the aforementioned military games started to salvage them.

The Polo Grounds were in an uproar all afternoon when the crowd started to take exception to a statement which The Associated Press attributed to Tyrus Raymond Cobb. These statements were to the disparagement of Carl Mays, the unlucky pitcher who was fated to throw the ball that resulted in the death of Ray Chapman.

Cobb Center of Storm
There was no way of getting this information to the crowd, so the booing and the hissing were violent every time Cobb came to bat. This roused Cobb's belligerence and he exchanged some sharp repartee with the crowd by the Detroit dugout.

The first storm seemed to daze Cobb because of its bitterness and he immediately sought the cause. "I won't make any alibi," he said. "No crowds can frighten me, but this is all untrue." Whereupon he proceeded to battle with the multitude for the rest of the game.

scored Shorten with a single to right and the less wonderful wop scored on Young's infield out.
In the sixth Veach opened with a two-bagger to right field and stole third. He scored when Shorten rebounded a hit to center field and bounded a hit to center field.

Yanks Finally Score
The Yanks got two in their half of the eighth chiefly because of something that is quite rare in the national pastime—an error by Tyrus Raymond Cobb. When he was recalled from the hospital to pinch hit for McGride and plastered one through the box.

Murderers in Slumber
The daussing to death of the Yankees was a long and tedious process, and if it had not been for the vociferous howling of the order of the raspberry on Mr. Ty Cobb's head, the game would have been a mere slumber party.

American League Will Meet For Action in Mays Case
Magnates to Gather at Philadelphia; Yankee Owners Issue Statement
There will be a special meeting of the American League next Tuesday at Philadelphia to consider action in regard to the matter of Carl Mays, who has been quoted as saying that he would not play against Carl Mays, the pitcher who threw the ball that killed Ray Chapman.

win games as usual. If he requires protection he will receive it from us and no matter what, no matter where that may lead.
Since joining the Yankees, Carl Mays has been a loyal and painstaking player, whose life has been clean and whose conduct has been above reproach.

There is no hostile word should be uttered against the man who is the cause of the unfortunate accident. He feels the outcome of it more deeply than most of us do. Chapman would be the first to deny any thought of revenge if he could but speak.

Those balls were put through a "third degree." Scientists pounded, beat and dismembered them and reported that there was nothing in them that would follow the memory of the man who hit the balls heretofore used.

Blow by Doyle In Late Rally Defeats Cubs

Young Also Figures in Up-rising Against Tyler; McGraw Men Victors, 8 to 3

By R. J. Kelly
CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—The Giants came back with a vengeance against the Cubs to-day and won the second game of the series by a score of 8 to 3. The victory again put the New Yorkers only three games behind the league leading Reds.

The Giants were trailing at the end of the seventh, but they definitely settled the outcome in the last two innings, when they scored seven runs. The cold, threatening weather kept the attendance down to a mere handful of faithful rooters.

Lefty Tyler, who undertook to hold the visitors in check, went along very nicely during the first seven innings. In that period he yielded only seven runs, scattered hits, but in the eighth and ninth he was plastered very freely.

Burns, Young and King were the important factors in the Giants' attack, as each registered three hits. The Giants got to a one-run lead in the very double inning. Burns led off with a double to center. Barnes followed on a grounder to Deal, but Burns held second.

The Cubs came back in the third and overtook the Giants, who had shot a single to left. On the hit-and-run play Robertson came through with a single to center, putting Terry on third. Merkle then lifted a long fly to Burns near the left field foul line.

Double Steal Fails
The home players and the fans put up an act that was really a comedy. When peace was restored Frisch and King attempted a double steal. Frisch apparently beat Terry's return to the base, but he was out at first base.

The McGraw men made a desperate stand in the ninth when they rallied to a 7-6 lead. The ever-liable George Burns led with a single off Tyler's shins. Barnes followed with a double, and Young hit safely over second.

The Cubs finally managed to break the deadlock in the ninth when they shoved one run across. Dally opened the inning with a single to left. Tyler was presented with a base on error by Frisch, who was out at first.

White Sox Drub Senators And Pass Cleveland Team
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Chicago went into the lead in the American League pennant race to-day by defeating Cleveland, 10 to 2, while Cleveland lost two games to Boston. Cleveland pitched effectively in all except one inning. The visitors scored all their runs off Zachary, Acona, who succeeded him, allowed only one hit in the last four innings.

Effect Upon Pitcher
The effect upon the pitcher after hitting a batsman and either killing or seriously injuring him has been varied. Some years ago Russ Ford beamed Roy Corhan, of the White Sox. Corhan was not expected to live. His condition was serious for several weeks.

Hard Blow to Cleveland
Chapman's death will be a hard blow to Cleveland. He was a great infielder and a fine hitter—and always a hard hitter.
In a physical way there is no chance to supplant Chapman. Just what the mental effect will be upon his clubmates remains to be seen.

Pirates and Phils Divide Double Bill; Babe Adams Victor

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—Pittsburgh and Philadelphia divided a double-header to-day, the visitors winning the initial contest, 3 to 1, and the home team the second game, 5 to 0.

There is a general law of compensation that seems to stalk through life. This law works both ways. When things are breaking too smoothly you can generally look out for a jolt.

When things are breaking badly there is frequently a glimmer of light just ahead. Baseball, in the midst of its greatest season, drawing its greatest crowds and holding greater interest, suddenly comes upon its greatest tragedy.

The marvel of it is not that men are killed here and there in both baseball and football but that in the major contests upon which the spotlight is turned so few fatal accidents ever occur.

Chapman's death will be a hard blow to Cleveland. He was a great infielder and a fine hitter—and always a hard hitter. In a physical way there is no chance to supplant Chapman.

Rube Marquard Shuts Out Reds By 4 to 0 Score

Brooklyn Twirler Yields Only Six Safeties; Johnston's Hit Routs Eller

From a Special Correspondent
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 21.—The Brooklyn worm turned to-day and bit the champion Cincinnati Reds by 4 to 0. Rube Marquard was director of the Red shutout. He held the champions to six hits and while they bunched two hits in one inning, he never was in danger.

Eller's fatal mistake lay in walking Olson in the eighth with two hands out. Olson stole second and scored on Jimmy Johnston's two-bagger.

That run caused Moran to send in Sam Crane as a pinch hitter for Eller in the eighth and Sam died to Griffith. Sallee pitched the ninth for the champions and was like Moran from home.

Wheat opened the ninth with a single to right and took second when Myers beat out a front of the plate and Nick Allen made a bad throw to force Wheat at third. Groh knocked the ball down, but Wheat was safe, and the bases full.

Emulating Ted Ray
Ted Ray came over and won our open championship at golf from the best field that ever went after the title. Our amateurs have almost as hard a battle upon their hands.

Red Sox Score Two Shut-Outs Over Speaker's Men
BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Boston shut out Cleveland in both games of a double-header to-day, winning the first 12 to 0 and the second 4 to 0. In each game Cleveland made only three hits.

Wood had charge of the Cleveland team in the absence of Manager Speaker, who was reported as improved and planning to leave Cleveland to-morrow afternoon to take part in the double game at Boston.

Scott was the big hitter of the second game, making a single, two doubles and a triple in four times at bat.

The shafts that Ted Ray uses in his pipe and his driver must be made of steel. Otherwise, they would continually be cracking under the strain.

L. K. H.—Vardon has a nervous affliction in his right hand which affects his putting stroke upon the wee ones where extreme delicacy is needed. On the thirteenth hole at Inverness on a two-foot putt he would have been at least eight feet over if he hadn't hit the back of the cup on one of his nervous jabs.

The peculiar part of it is that the man who rarely gives a square deal is nearly always kicking because he doesn't get one.
